E                          B       A                    E
This walk of faith ain't easy, He never said it was,
                           B            A
To be lifted up, you first must fall
E                        B       A                    E
Well here I am I've fallen, right here on my knees
                                 B            A
begging for the chance to know You Lord.

          B            E          A          E
And it all comes down to one true thing
           B           E          A
that He gave His Son for me
          B          E       A        E                  A               B and He died for me upon that cross, that He lives in me today.
            A          E                  A                   E
Keep my eyes on Jesus, keep my hands raised in praise,
           A          E          A
Let my voice cry out your name,
          E           B        A    E              A            B
You've loved me before time began, You live in me today.

                      A              B                  A       E       B
(end) Come and fill my heart today, Be my every breath today,
         A       E      A              B       E       A
Jesus, be my Lord today, Jesus be my Lord today,
         B       E      A              E       B       A       B   E
Jesus, be my Lord today, Jesus be my Lord today.
